Old Dominion Freight Line Inc. Relocates Service Center to Columbia, Mo.

THOMASVILLE, N.C. (November 7, 2008) – Dave Bates, VP of the Central States region for Old Dominion Freight Line Inc., announced a service center relocation to Columbia, Mo. The 34-door facility is located on a 10-acre site at 500 N. Tradewind Parkway, Columbia.

According to Bates, the Columbia Service Center will continue operations under the leadership of Service Center Manager Daniel Ranabargar, who will direct a staff of 20.

“The relocated Columbia Service Center is a state-of-the-art facility with greatly expanded capacity that will offer central Missouri a complete package of Domestic, Expedited and Global Services,” said Bates. “Old Dominion will be positioned to gain market share in points currently being served.”

Old Dominion Freight Line, Inc. is a leading less-than-truckload (LTL) super regional carrier. Through its non-union work force and four operating groups, OD•Domestic, OD•Expedited, OD•Global and OD•Technology, Old Dominion offers an array of innovative products and services and provides complete nationwide coverage within the Northeast, Southeast, Midwest, Central States, Gulf States and West regions of the country, including 39 states with 100 percent full-state coverage and international services around the globe.
